Papi's Party Tips for a Fool-Proof Fiesta

Amigos! Ever wondered how you can party like Papi? Below you'll find my fool-proof guide to wooing your date, dazzling your friends, and managing embarrassing relatives. Follow these steps, and you'll have everyone in the room partying like it's 13993 (that's 1999 in dog years).

1 Leave a present. Just not that kind of present. Nobody likes a party pooper.

2 Make it budget-friendly! Tell guests it's BYOB- Bring Your Own Bone.

3 Repurpose your party supplies. Flowers make great centerpieces. They also make great bathrooms.

4 Know when to say no. As in, NO, Chloe, that dress does not make your tail look big.

5 BUENO: Ripping apart a piñata in the shape of your neighbor's cat.
NO BUENO: Ripping apart your neighbor's cat.

6 Don't worry if you have two left feet. You also have two right ones!

7 Establish a dress-code. No shirt, no shoes, no problema. No sombrero? BIG problema.

8 Go green! Personally, I dig guacamole.

9 Stay classy! Resist the urge to eat the worm. Instead, offer it to your date.

10 If your kids are too embarrassed to dance with you in front of their friends, dance by yourself! They'll be way more embarrassed.

You can please some of the dogs some of the time, but you can't please all of the dogs all of the time. Unless you hire a mariachi band.

12 Word travels fast, so be discerning about your guest list. Let in one flea, and pretty soon they'll be swarming the place.

13 There's no excuse for running out of games. Have you found your tail yet? Didn't think so.

14 When your weird uncle starts doing the lambada, don't just stand there. Bust a move!

15 Fill the piñata with something exciting, like a juicy bone. This way while everyone fights over the bone, you'll get the cake to yourself.

16 Chihuahuas are good at many things. The electric slide is NOT one of them.

Buena suerte,

Papi Cortez
